Tinder's Most Right-Swiped Jobs

We introduced the ability to integrate job and education details into Tinder profiles just three months ago. Since then, millions of Tinder users have added their job to their profiles. Adding your job to your profile is a great way to provide additional insight for potential matches – it also increases your chances of receiving a right swipe!

Today, we're releasing the most right-swiped jobs in the U.S. So far, we've found that Pilots are the most right-swiped men on Tinder and Physical Therapists are the most right-swiped women. Founders/Entrepreneurs, Teachers and Models are among the top jobs for both males and females.

Check out the full list below!

The list was compiled based on the occupations of user profiles that received the highest ratio of right swipes from November 2015 through January 2016.
